

Gallaat News of late I bring,
 Tidings of chusing now a King,
 Whereby true Subjects may reioice
 In chusing them so sweet a choyce
 That love and peace may so agree,
 To end the days of misery,
 To the Tune of, Royal News, Royal News.

The pzince he will come soon,
 gallant news,
 gallant news,
 To inioy his Crowne
 With glory and renown,
 gallant news,
 If they can agree
 In love and unity,
 Then we all shall see
 An end of misery,
 gallant news,
 gallant news,

The Army doth consent
 gallant news, &c.
 With a free Parliament
 All dangers to prevent,
 gallant news.
 To ioyne with heart and hand
 For the good of England
 The Gospel to defend,
 God send that happy end
 gallant news, &c.

Then let us all reioice
 gallant news, &c.
 Since they have made a choise,
 With heart and eke with voice,
 gallant news,
 In doing of that thing
 which will us comfort bring
 In chusing of a King,
 We will reioyce and sing
 gallant news, &c.

Then trading will be rise,
 gallant news,
 gallant news,
 And we shall have no strife
 But lead a quiet life,
 gallant news,
 we shall not be so feast,
 For to be so opprest,
 But we shall live at rest,
 The times will be at best,
 gallant news,
 gallant news.

Gallaat News of late I bring,
 Tidings of chusing now a King,
 Whereby true Subjects may reioice
 In chusing them so sweet a choyce
 That love and peace may so agree,
 To end the days of misery,
 To the Tune of, Royal News, Royal News.

The pzince he will come soon,

gallant news,
 gallant news,
 To inioy his Crowne
 With glory and renown,

gallant news,
 If they can agree
 In love and unity,
 Then we all shall see
 An end of misery,

gallant news,
 gallant news,

The Army doth consent
 gallant news, &c.
 With a free Parliament
 All dangers to prevent,
 gallant news.

To ioyne with heart and hand
 For the good of England
 The Gospel to defend,
 God send that happy end
 gallant news, &c.

Then let us all reioice
 gallant news, &c.

Since they have made a choise,
 With heart and eke with voice,
 gallant news,
 In doing of that thing
 which will us comfort bring
 In chusing of a King,
 We will reioyce and sing
 gallant news, &c.

Then trading will be rise,
 gallant news,
 gallant news,

And we shall have no strife
 But lead a quiet life,
 gallant news,
 we shall not be so feast,
 For to be so opprest,
 But we shall live at rest,
 The times will be at best,
 gallant news,
 gallant news.

The second Part to the same Tune.

The poore that liues in want
gallant news,
gallant news,

They will know no scant England such good will plant,
gallant news

Charity will probe so great To feed the needy with meat

When Charls is on his seat As king and Ruler meet,
gallant news,
gallant news.

And love will flourish so
gallant news, &c.

That we shall know no wo Between our friend and foe,
gallant news,

Then England may say,
It was a happy day,
That Charls may bear the sway, wherein such comfort lay,
gallant news, &c.

The Gentry hath been sad, but gallant news, &c.
which will make them glad, Such comfort's to be had,
gallant news,

London, Printed for Francis Grove on Snow-hill. Entered according to Order. FINIS

When neither less nor lay For them at all to pay,
At home they may stay,
They need to fear no fray,
gallant news, &c.

Then may the plow-man plow,
gallant news, &c.

And after he may sow,
To pay where he doth owe,
gallant news,

And then he need not fear No dangers to come near,
But to love his Dear,
And drink good ale and bear,
gallant news, &c.

As formerly were done,
gallant news,
gallant news,

Before these wars begun Till the rising of the Sun,
gallant news,

By him we soon shall see
An end of misery,
If once we do agree
In love and unity,
gallant news,
gallant news.